Preface 9

1. Syntax: Introduction and Definitions 13
Introduction and overview 13
1.1 Syntax and other linguistic disciplines 13
1.2 Approaches to the study of syntax 16
1.2.1 Traditional approach 17
1.2.2 Transformational Generative Grammar approach (TGG) 19
1.2.3 Functional approach 22
1.2.4 Structuralist approach 26
1.2.4.1 Historical and theoretical background 28
1.2.4.2 Building a structure: hierarchies and rules 30
Summary 33

2. Syntax: Fundamentals 35
Introduction and overview 35
2.1 Syntactic analysis 36
2.1.1 The procedure 36
2.1.2 Modes of syntactic description 39
2. 2 Syntactic units 43
2.2.1 Phrases 44
2.2.1.1 Noun Phrase (NP) 45
2.2.1.2 Verb Phrase (VP) 46
2.2.1.3 Adjective Phrase (AdjP) 47
2.2.1.4 Adverb Phrase (AdvP) 48
2.2.1.5 Prepositional Phrase (PP) 49
2.2.2 Clauses 50
2.2.3 Sentences 53
2.3 Basic syntactic structures 57
2.3.1 Structure of predication 58
2.3.2 Structure of modification 59
2.3.3 Structure of complementation 60
2.3.4 Structure of coordination 61
2.4 Constituent structure and constituency tests 62
2.4.1 Constituent structure 62
2.4.2 Substitution 63
2.4.2.1 Substitution with pro-forms 64
2.4.3 Movement 66
2.4.4 Coordination 68

2.5 Syntactic functions 69
Summary 74

3. Structure of Predication 77
Introduction and overview 77
3.1 The Subject and the Predicate 77
3.1.1 Syntactic characteristics of subjects 79
3.1.2 Semantic roles of subjects 82
3.1.3 'Empty' or 'dummy' subjects 85
3.1.4 Predicate 86
3.2 Basic sentence patterns 87
3.2.1 Patterns with be 88
3.2.1.1 Pattern: N be ADJ 89
3.2.1.2 Pattern: N^1 be N^1 90
3.2.1.3 Pattern: N be ADV 91
3.2.2 Patterns with other linking verbs (LV) 92
3.2.2.1 Pattern: N LV ADJ 93
3.2.2.2 Pattern: N^1 LV N^1 94
3.2.3 Patterns with intransitive verbs (IntrV) 95
3.2.3.1 Pattern: N IntrV 96
3.2.4 Patterns with transitive verbs 98
3.2.4.1 Pattern: N^1 TrV N^2 99
3.2.4.3 Pattern: N^1 TrV N^2 N^2 108
3.2.5 Structural ambiguity 111
Summary 113

4. Positional Classes: Nominals And Verbals 117
Introduction and overview 117
4.1 Form, function and position 117
4.2 Nominals 119
4.2.1 Nominal clauses 122
4.2.1.1 That-nominal clauses 123
4.2.1.2 Wh-interrogative nominal clauses 126
4.2.1.3 If/whether nominal clauses 128
4.2.1.4 Wh-nominal relative clauses 130
4.2.1.5 Non-finite nominal clauses 133
4.2.1.5.1 Infinitive non-finite clauses 134
4.3 Verbals 138
Summary 139
5. Structure of Modification: Adjectivals and Adverbials 143
Introduction and overview 143
5.1 Adjectivals 144
5.1.1 Prenominal modifiers 146
5.1.1.1 What can precede the noun head? 148
5.1.1.2 Ambiguity in prenominal modification 150

5.1.1.3 Multiple premodification 152
5.1.1.4 Ordering of prenominal adjectives 153
5.1.2 Postnominal modifiers 154
5.1.2.1 Relative clauses 156
5.2 Adverbials 164
5.2.1 Word group adverbials 167
5.2.1.1 Prepositional phrases 168
5.2.1.2 Non-finite verb phrases/clauses 171
5.2.1.3 Adverbial clauses 173
5.2.2 Sentence modifiers 178
5.2.3 Adverbs as modifiers of adjectives and adverbs 180
Summary 181

6. Complementation 183
Introduction and overview 183
6.1 Verb complementation 184
6.2 Complementation in the prepositional phrase 187
6.3 Complements of nouns and adjectives 188
6.3.1 Complement of the adjective 189
6.3.2 Complement of the noun 191
6.3.2.1 Infinitive phrases as noun complements 194
6.4 Verb complementation – multi-word verbs 195
Summary 202

7. Coordination 205
Introduction and overview 205
7.1 Syntactic characteristics of coordination 205
7.1.1 Coordinating conjunctions 207
7.2 Compound sentences 209
7.2.1 Ellipsis and gapping 212
Summary 213

8. Immediate Constituent (IC) analysis 215
Introduction and overview 215
8.1 Preliminaries 215
8.2. Graphic representation of IC analysis 217
8.3 Basic principles of IC analysis 221
8.4. Analyzing various syntactic units 222
8.4.1 Sentences 223
8.4.2 Clauses 224
8.4.3 Prepositional phrases 225
8.4.4 Infinitive phrases 226
8.4.5 Noun phrases 226
8.4.6 Verb phrases 229
8.4.7 How to indicate functions 230

8.4.8 Adjective phrases 231
8.4.9 Adverb phrases 232
8.4.10 Complex words 232
8.4.10.1 Multi-word verbs 233
8.4.10.2 Seemingly complex words 235
8.4.11 Some issues of prenominal modification 236
8.4.12 Coordination 237
8.5 Constituent labelling in IC analysis 239
Summary 242

9. Transformational Generative Grammar 245
Introduction and overview 245
9.1 TGG as an intellectual enterprise 246
9.2 TG approach to the study of language 249
9.2.1 Structuralist vs. Generative grammar 249
9.2.2 Main tenets of TGG 251
9.3 Historical overview 257
9.4 Syntactic structures 267
9.4.1 How we know what we know – some examples 268
9.4.2 Phrase Structure Rules (Standard theory) 272
9.4.4 X-bar rules 274
9.4.5 X-bar rule for clauses 282
9.4.6 Transforming structures 287
9.4.7 Empty categories 292
9.4.8 What's all this have to do with EFL learning? 294
9.5 Thematic roles 296
Summary 301

10. Functional Grammar 305
Introduction and overview 305
10.1 Main tenets of the functional approach 306
10.2 The Experiential Component 310
10.3 The Interpersonal Component 315
10.4 The Textual Component 318
10.5 Clause complexes 321
10.5.1 Embedded clauses 324
